MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION OF FUND PERFORMANCE

Investment Objective and Strategies

The fundamental investment objective of the Global Neutral Balanced Pool (the "Fund") is to achieve long-term growth of capital and income through investment in a diversified portfolio of bonds and equity securities. The Fund seeks to accomplish this objective by investing its assets through investments in other mutual funds ("Underlying Funds") that are managed by SEI Investments Canada Company (the "Manager").

Under normal circumstances, the Fund will seek to generate capital appreciation and income while maintaining broad equity and fixed income market participation. The fund will invest in Underlying Funds, each of which has its own investment goal.

The Manager has selected each of the Underlying Funds in which the Fund will invest, as well as the percentage of the Fund's net assets that will be invested in the Underlying Fund. The Manager selects Underlying Funds from the relevant asset classes and in proportions that satisfy the investment objectives and strategies of the Fund. The Underlying Funds and their percentage weightings may be changed from time to time at the Manager's discretion.

Results of Operations

Fund returns are presented for Class E units of the Fund and Class O units of the Underlying Funds. Returns for other classes of units may vary, largely due to differences in fees and expenses. All dollar figures are expressed in thousands, unless otherwise indicated. Please refer to the Past Performance section for class-level performance details.

The Fund returned 3.8%, outperforming the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index (the "Index") return of 2.5% for the period ended June 30, 2023 (the "period"). Fund returns are calculated after the deduction of fees and expenses, unlike the returns of the Index. A discussion of the performance of the key Underlying Funds is provided below.

The Fund's net asset value decreased by 8% during the period, from $41,399 as at December 31, 2022 to $38,250 as at June 30, 2023. Positive investment performance of $1,678 was offset by net redemptions of $4,827 resulting in an overall decrease in net asset value.

RESULTS RELATED TO UNDERLYING FUNDS

Volatility prevailed through the first half of 2023, driven by a variety of factors such as bank failures in the U.S., the reopening of the Chinese economy, a see-saw of expectations in central bank policy and the continuation of the war between Russia and Ukraine.

The Canadian Fixed Income Fund returned 2.8% outperforming the FTSE Canada Universe Bond Index return of 2.5% for the period. Remaining overweight shorter-term corporate bonds helped the fund generate income and protect assets against rising interest rates. With short-term yields substantially higher than longer-term yields, the fund was able to generate more income with less interest rates risk compared to the index. The fund's underweight to mid-term bonds detracted value in the first quarter but boosted relative results in the second quarter. Holding less exposure to the Provincial sector detracted from relative results in the second quarter but remaining underweight the Federal sector more than compensated given the Federal sector substantially lagged the index in the first half of the year.

The Real Return Bond Fund returned -0.4%, slightly underperforming the FTSE Canada Real Return Bond Index return of -0.3% for the period. Fund performance was mixed given the fund lagged the index in the first quarter but outperformed in the second quarter. The fund's interest rate sensitivity (duration) was higher than the index in the first quarter and detracted from relative results. Shifting to an overweight duration position through the second quarter contributed to relative results. Remaining overweight Provincial real return bonds ("RRBs") was also beneficial as the sector outperformed the overall RRB Index for the first half of the year.

The Short Term Bond Fund returned 1.5% outperforming the FTSE Canada Short Term Overall Bond Index return of 1.0% for the period. Fund performance was driven primarily by sector allocation and security selection within chosen sectors.

Global Neutral Balanced Pool

Semi-Annual Management Report of Fund Performance

Overweight positions in Energy, Financial, Communication and Infrastructure had a positive impact on relative returns through the first half of the year. Similarly, underweight positions to Federal and Provincial bonds were also positive given both sectors lagged the index over the period. Holding more exposure to BBB-rated securities was also a contributing factor to relative performance gains. A small allocation to high-yield bonds (hedged to Canadian dollars) had a small but positive impact on relative performance. The fund's interest rate sensitivity (duration) was held close to the index throughout the period and had a minimal impact on relative returns.

The U.S. High Yield Bond Fund returned 2.6%, underperforming the ICE BofA US High Yield Constrained Index return of 3.0% for the period. Security selection within the Financial Services, Energy and Consumer Staples sectors bolstered fund performance for the period. Both an underweight allocation and security selection within the Leisure and Services sector, as well as security selection within Health Care, detracted from fund performance for the period.

The U.S. Large Company Equity Fund returned 8.4%, underperforming the Russell 1000 Index return of 13.8% for the period. Information Technology was the strongest-performing sector over the period as growth stocks outperformed. Conversely, the Energy, Health Care, and Utilities sectors produced negative returns. The fund underperformed the index over the period primarily as a result of the fund's value tilt. Fund performance was also hampered by the underweight allocations to several of the largest-capitalization stocks that have outsized weights in the index, as well as an underweight to the Information Technology sector. Although security selection within the Industrials sector benefitted performance, security selection within the Financials sector had a negative impact.

The U.S. Small Company Equity Fund returned 1.2%, underperforming the Russell 2500 Index return of 6.1% for the period. The fund underperformed its index, over the period due largely to poor stock selection within the Financials, Information Technology, Real Estate and Communication Services sectors. Sector allocation added slightly to fund performance attributable mainly to an underweight allocation to Utilities, but not by enough of a margin to overcome the negative impact of stock selection in that sector.

The International Equity Fund returned 11.1%, outperforming the MSCI EAFE Index return of 9.1% for the period. Global equity markets saw strong performance in the first half of 2023, with a slow march upward. In the U.S., mega-cap technology stocks dominated during the reporting period and led the global markets by a comfortable margin. Outside of the U.S., the strongest-performing companies over the reporting period were mainly European mega-caps, while emerging markets, especially China, underperformed. Within the index, which tracks the performance of developed markets outside North America, the Information Technology and Consumer Discretionary sectors were strongest performers, while Energy, Consumer Staples, and Health Care lagged the overall market. Europe was the top-performing region, followed closely by Japan, while the UK and the Pacific ex-Japan regions underperformed. From a sector perspective, the fund's underweight allocation to the Energy sector and overweight to Information Technology enhanced fund performance for the reporting period. The currency effect also had a positive impact on fund performance, particularly the underweight to the Japanese yen, which weakened significantly against the Canadian dollar over the period.

The Global Managed Volatility Fund returned 1.8%, underperforming the MSCI All Country World Index return of 11.3% for the period. The fund achieved meaningful risk reduction and posted a net positive total return, though lagged the broader market given the strategy's defensive objective. Emphasis on attractively priced securities within the low-volatility space and additional diversification objectives translated into an underweight allocation to Consumer Discretionary and mega-cap technology stocks.

The Emerging Markets Equity Fund returned 5.5%, outperforming the MSCI Emerging Markets Index return of 2.4% for the period. Holdings in the Information Technology (IT) and Financials sectors were the largest contributors to fund performance. Within IT, the rebound in key companies in the global IT supply chain resulted in positive bottom-up corporate results. Within Financials, strong bottom-up results in banks across multiple countries with strong domestic growth led to gains. The fund's underweight allocation to the underperforming Indian and Chinese Utilities was another significant contributor to performance. Consumer Staples was the only notable detractor from fund performance for the period due to generally weak bottom-up results across multiple countries. The fund's overweight to value stocks had a positive impact on performance.

The Canadian Equity Fund returned 6.0%, outperforming the S&P/TSX Composite Index return of 5.7% for the period. The fund benefitted from positive selection within the Financials and Materials sectors. Within Financials, an underweight to banks contributed. Within Materials, an overweight to forest products and underweight to gold contributed. The Information Technology sector was by far the strongest performing sector. The fund's underweight to Shopify was the primary detractor.
